

AUTOMATIC SYSTEM SUITS THE CITY ALDERMEN

Board of Trade will make Arrangements to Handle the Big Rush which will Come to Edmonton next Spring.
New System of Advertising

The board of trade and city council executives arrived home on Sunday night at 11 o'clock after a return trip which was distinguished mostly by the delays experienced on the road. Heavy snow storms delayed the train, so that instead of arriving on Saturday morning as they were scheduled to do, the party did not reach the city until last night.

Of the members of the city council who went down to Winnipeg only the three returned, Messrs. Latta, Sundin and Bellamy. The other members, Boyle, Manson and the mayor went to Chicago with the telephone committee to examine at close range the working of the automatic telephone. Along with them are J. H. Morris and W. H. Clark, and this party of five have been commissioned by the city council and the board of trade to report on the feasibility of this automatic system for Edmonton.

Speaking about the automatic this morning, Alderman Latta stated that as far as they were able to judge from what they saw in Winnipeg, the automatic is the appliance that is required to bring the telephone system up-to-date, and as had very little doubt that the result of the Chicago trip would be a favorable report. One of the advantages of the automatic, he said, was that with a very small additional expense the whole telephone system could be supplied with such attachments as would make every telephone in the city a fire alarm as well as a telephone. The automatic agent who met the council in Winnipeg offered to get as far as installing a number of the telephones in Edmonton so that the citizens would try them before adopting the system in its entirety.

A. T. Cushing, who went down with the excursion but came back the other way in order to visit Calgary on the return, said that from what he saw and heard he feels safe in concluding that there is going to be a great coming spring, and he thinks that it will tax the present capacity of the hotels and other places of abode to handle the crowd. Mr. Cushing stated that the board of trade has under consideration a proposition to generally and thoroughly reorganize their work in the matter of taking care of the people who are coming in and making arrangements to see that those who want to get started in business in the city on a proper footing. It is also proposed to look more seriously into the matter of advertising the city, or perhaps it would be more correct to say, making arrangements to do "follow-up" work along the lines of the advertising already done. Mr. Cushing said that an impromptu meeting of the board was held on the train going down and that a general line of reorganization was laid down to be submitted to the annual meeting, which takes place in the council chamber on Tuesday week, the 13th inst.

MUNICIPAL SYSTEM SATISFACTORY

Winnipeg, Feb. 3.—The special telephone committee of the legislature held its second sitting today. Witnesses from Gladstone, Neepawa and Yorkton, in which municipal telephone systems are in operation were examined. Evidence was given to the effect that the saving to Neepawa residents in telephone rates by operating a public owned system, instead of subscribing to the Bell system would be sufficient in twenty years to bear the cost of constructing three municipal plants. All three systems declared that municipal systems in the towns in question had been highly satisfactory. Gladstone and Yorkton witnesses affirmed that farmers using telephone near these towns were entirely satisfied with the service given by the municipal system.

OLD LONDON IN ELECTION TIMES

Edmonton Man Tells of the Campaign in Great Britain.

To Mr. R. V. Bellamy, son of Mr. Thos. Bellamy, of this city, who is a Rhodes scholar at Oxford, the Bulletin is indebted for the following interesting letter on the British elections:

London, January 18, 1906.
To the Editor of The Bulletin:

Dear Sir—

It has been my good fortune to be in London during the past few days, and, I, of course, have participated in the interest that attaches to the present election. If the Englishman is stolid about many things, he can at least show a very lively enthusiasm over politics, and such enthusiasm is contagious to one who has been inculcated with what the Conservatives might describe as the "virus of Liberalism." Both parties entered upon the election now in progress with the greatest energy and even acrimony. The Unionists announced to the electorate that the main issue to be decided was the "preservation of the Union," and the "Unity of the Empire"; the Liberals on the other hand, said that the British people must choose between Free Trade and Protection. The Liberals of course, stand for a measure of reform in the government of Ireland, but they described the Home Rule question as a bogey, which existed only in the imagination of their political enemies. So the campaign was fought on the above issues, and even now, when the polling is but half over, Liberalism is easily triumphant. Some of the campaign meetings were exceedingly stormy, some even bordered on the disgraceful. Mr. Balfour could not get a hearing on one occasion when he attempted to speak on Home Rule; Mr. Chamberlain was hooted down at Derby; Mr. Lyttleton and Mr. Lloyd-George had uproarious audiences at Leamington, and in Chester Campbell-Bannerman had to abandon his speech. Small numbers of female suffragettes were responsible for the interesting scenes in many places, and often had to be forcibly removed, such was their clamor. The printer and the cartoonist have aided valiantly in the strife. The boardings are covered with flaring posters, and every house has been deluged with campaign literature. Mr. Chamberlain figures prominently in most of the posters. In one he is represented as the shop-keeper who sells the "little loaf," dear bacon, dear sugar, in fact, dearables of all kinds, while in a neighboring shop, a prosperous-looking merchant dispenses the necessities of life to smiling customers at such low prices as Free Trade is supposed to maintain.

The "Chinese slavery" cry has done mighty service in the cause of Liberalism, and that it has captured many votes is evident from the defeat of Alfred Lyttleton, the former Colonial Secretary, who was responsible for the measure. A prominent Unionist poster entitled "The Real Slavery," it pictures Campbell-Bannerman and members of his cabinet dressed as Chinese coolies, led along in procession with chains about their necks, by the stern taskmaster, Mr. Reimond, who points towards the "Home Rule Compromise."

One of the most noteworthy features of the election is the "Labor vote." For many years there has been small Labor representation in the House of Commons, but now it is apparent that there is to be a comparatively large and well organized party definitely engaged in the interests of the workingman—and paid by him, too. The Unionists allege that there is a compact between Liberalism and Labor. At all events, it is certain that out of ninety Labor candidates in Great Britain, forty were recognized by the Liberal association. John Burns is, of course the foremost of his party, and yesterday he was returned by a large majority.

The election commenced last Friday when Ipswich returned two Liberals. On Saturday began what the Daily Telegraph calls the "deluge of Socialism, Separatism and Secularism," with the defeat of Mr. Balfour, and the complete triumph of Free Trade in the great manufacturing city of Manchester. This seems to have given the cue to other constituencies, and the deluge continues. Most of the manufacturing centres have returned Liberals or Labor representatives, Sheffield and Birmingham, however, have remained Conservative.

Election results are announced to thousands of Londoners in the evenings by newspapers who have screens and lanterns at the entrance to the magnificent Kingsway. Two Liberal newspapers have their quarters in close proximity to the recently erected statue of Gladstone. One of them has a lantern slide, with these words, which establish themselves here.

Six million dollars' worth of established business houses changed hands this morning in Montreal, Winnipeg, Hamilton, St. John, Halifax and elsewhere and it was done so quietly that outside the circle the transaction was hardly perceptible.

E. W. Bole, M.P., president of the company, assumed control and he will now remain in Montreal to exercise supervision over the affairs of the new company.

RAILWAYS COME HIGH IN B. C.

"The Canadian Pacific railway got $7,800 and 9,000 acres a mile.
"The British Columbia Southern $11,000 and 16,000 acres.
"The Columbia and Kootenay $2,000 and 3,000 acres.
"The E. & N. $9,000 and 25,000 acres.
"The Kaslo & Slocan, $2,000 and 8,000 acres, and three other railways—Shuswap & Okanagan, Nakusp & Slocan and Victoria & Sidney—have had their bonds guaranteed, 4 per cent on $24,000, and $18,000 per mile, respectively.

PUBLICITY CAMPAIGN

The Calgary board of trade has taken a large order with its publicity campaign and is endeavoring to raise $10,000 to carry out the work. Here are some of the objects of the campaign, as formulated by the board of trade:
1 To erect at once a temporary building or rent suitable quarters for publicity purposes, and to maintain a general information bureau.
2 To publish for wide distribution the best possible literature descriptive of the resources and advantages of the Calgary district.
3 To maintain a commissioner of publicity with such assistants as may be necessary.
4 To maintain agents at Winnipeg and other suitable points to work among intending settlers and others in the interests of Calgary and district.
5 To advertise judiciously the resources and advantages of the district in the newspapers of the United States, Eastern Canada and Great Britain.
6 To encourage and financially assist, if necessary, the bringing of excursions, conventions and other gatherings to Calgary, and to entertain such visitors if deemed advisable.
7 To invite the representatives of leading newspapers to visit Calgary, to entertain them while here and drive them around the district; and to pay their travelling and other expenses when necessary.
8 Above all to make the advantages of Calgary as a manufacturing and wholesale centre prominent, and to encourage manufacturers and wholesalers to establish themselves here.

REAL ESTATE ACTIVE IN EDMONTON TO-DAY

Announcement of Railway Movements Creates Strong Demand for East and North End Property and Prices Rise in Consequence

Following the announcement made in the Bulletin on Friday that the Grand Trunk Pacific had purchased the eastern approach to the Clover Bar crossing and was securing options on the property on the west side of the river, the price of city property has been jumping at a lively rate. The Bulletin was no sooner on the street than a scramble for east end and Norwood lots commenced, which continued far into the night and was renewed Saturday morning. Prices in east end lots have jumped 25 to 50 per cent and Norwood lots have gone up in some cases 100 per cent. D. J. MacNamara of the Dominion Land Titles office, was one of the heaviest profitters by the rise in price. Not over two weeks ago he purchased 163 lots in Norwood at a price somewhere in the neighborhood of $90 a lot, making a ten per cent payment of close to $950 on the whole block. Today the lots in the district where he purchased are being held at from $200 to $280 each and even higher, and few property owners want to sell at that price.

During the evening some very funny turns were made, and one or two savor of a regular real estate boom. One local speculator, Mr. Gibson, by name, walked into a downtown real estate office 9 p.m. Friday night, and placing his finger on a certain block, said: "What have you got there?" The real estate man informed him that he had six lots at a certain figure. "I will take them," said Mr. Gibson.

and you can list them at a $50 advance." While he was waiting for his receipt another purchaser came in and took the whole six lots at the $50 advance, netting Gibson $300 in three minutes, or $1.33 2-3 cents a second. This is making money fast, but those kind of things happen once in a while in Edmonton.

NESBITT TAKES

GOVERNMENT JOB

The Toronto Tammany Leader Goes to His Reward. Vacancy will be Filled Soon

nesbitt takes government job

Toronto, Feb. 4.—A sensation will be created in Provincial political circles when it becomes known tomorrow that Dr. Beatty Nesbitt, one of the most prominent Conservative politicians in this province, has quit the arena and accepted a Government position. At a special meeting of the Cabinet on Saturday the appointment was made. Premier Whitney said tonight that a writ for the vacancy in the House will likely be issued at once.

Victoria, Feb. 4.—The total number of bodies recovered from the Valencia is 27. Five more, three men and two women were found floating a mile from the wreck by the U. S. revenue cutter Perry. The corpses were nude and bodies mutilated. None have been identified.

Difficulty is the nurse of greatness—a harsh nurse, who roughly rocks her foster-children into strength and athletic proportions. The mind, grappling with great aims and wrestling with mighty impediments, grows by a certain necessity to their stature. Scarce anything so convinces one of the capacity of the human intellect for indefinite expansion in the different stages of its being as this power of enlarging itself to the height and compass of surrounding emergencies.

The term "Prime Minister" appears originally to have been slang. It was first applied to Sir Robert Walpole but in a reproachful sense. On Feb. 11th, 1742, after 20 years' tenure of office, Sir Robert resigned all his employments. "Having invested me," he remarked to the Opposition a short time previous to his resignation, "with a kind of mock dignity and styled me Prime Minister, they impute to me an unpardonable abuse of that chimerical conferred." Such a personage as authority which they created and the Prime Minister or the Premier is not even mentioned in the official table of precedence, and is unknown to the written Constitution.

The French are making another startling claim just now, on behalf of a sister nation, Holland, to wit, "A French boxing master declares that the greatly advertised jiu-jitsu is not—or was not originally—a Japanese art at all. The Japanese, in fact, only borrowed it, as they did torpedoes, big guns, and other expensive toys, from Europe, and at once set to work to adapt it to their own ideas. Jiu-jitsu, then, or the germ of it, is to be found in a little volume dealing with the noble art of wrestling, published in Amsterdam in 1672 by one Nicolaas Pelters, a champion wrestler of his time. The book is illustrated with engravings, each with its accompanying legend, many of which, M. Charlemonet declares, represent exactly the same tricks of attack and defence which are now taught by the exponents of jiu-jitsu.

A lady who rather prided herself on her powers as a teacher of Biblical knowledge was recently staying at a country vicarage in North Lancashire, in a district where sporting instincts prevail, and where almost every male adult and very many youngsters own and have an interest in dogs. Taking, as was her wont, a class in the Sunday school, and expatiating upon the Book of Job, she, in the course of her remarks, introduced the daughters of that patriarch and put to her class a question which she had previously in other places found an effective poser.

"Now, Job," she said, "had three daughters—Jemima, Kezia and ——. Can anyone give me the name of the third?"

"Keren-happuch," said one of the girls, whose appearance by no means suggested the possession of much Biblical lore.

"You are a good girl for studying your Bible so carefully," said the gratified teacher; "go up to the top of the class."

"She didn't get thatten eawi o' Bible," cried an envious classmate. "They's th' names o' her feyther's three whippits!"

The dignified gentleman with the buckskin gloves saw a pin lying on the pavement. He stooped to pick it up without removing his gloves.

The first grab essayed about three grains of dust, but the dignified gentleman persisted. A bootblack, a newsboy, and two idlers stooped to see the performance, and with this nucleus the crowd gathered rapidly and began offering advice.

"Good for you, old boy."

"Now you've got it."

"Somebody get him a spade."

"I say, aren't you afraid of apoplexy?"

"Stick to it," called a voice with a suspicious intonation of insincerity. Then the pin was picked up and the dignified man drew a small box from his overcoat pocket, opened it, and exclaimed—

"Well said, my friend. 'Stick to it' has always been my motto, and you will find it blown in each and every bottle of this justly-celebrated mullage, which I am offering at the small price of three-pence a bottle. H—"

But the crowd had melted away, with the exception of the man who had spoken the "cue."

During the approaching session of the Dominion Parliament, application may be made at the instance of the Vancouver Island members speaking for the Victoria and Nanaimo boards of trade and other commercial bodies, for an appropriation sufficient to cover the cost of surveys and an authoritative report as to the expenditure approximately involved should it be decided to give Vancouver Island connection with the Canadian mainland by means of a railway bridge, which project has been revived at intervals ever since the Canadian Pacific railway was first discussed as a practical possibility and some port on the island was looked upon as the natural Pacific terminus of a Canadian transcontinental railroad.

When James Whitcomb Riley wrote his rhythmical poem, "The Little Town of Tainoit," he little dreamed that the day would come when the people of the village that he thus denominated, partly in a spirit of railleury and partly in derision of its claims to civic importance, would rise up as one man against the Government's authority and resent the act that would take from the village its identity. For years the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton Railroad Company has refused to place the name of Tailholt in its time-tables, and has persisted in calling the station Beedsville, and the Government has been equally unmindful of the popular demand and called the postoffice Carrollton. This was bad enough, the people thought, but now the Government has gone a step further and has taken Carrollton off the postoffice list and made the village a rural route station.

During the war some doubt was thrown upon the statement that the Japanese were actually able to build warships of formidable size and construction in their own dockyards. Now we learn that both at Kure and at Yokosuka battleships of 18,000 tons each—larger than the Dominion or King Edward VII. class—are already in course of construction, while four armored cruisers of 14,000 tons each—about the size of the Drake—are also on the stocks in Japanese yards. In British yards, nearer completion, are the Kashuma and Katori, both larger than the Mikasa, which was Togo's flagship. Plans for a 22,000-ton vessel to carry fourteen 12-inch guns, and steam twenty knots, are under construction, the Japanese believing that the biggest battleship, armed with the most big guns, will prove the invincible power in the future. Submarines are also being subjected to some remarkable and critical tests by the naval experts of Tokyo, who believe that these weapons will prove of immense value under the control of men who will show such supreme indifference to danger as to do their countrymen.

This activity in naval construction by Japan is not altogether reassuring. It implies the necessity for similar activity on the part of some other powers. As regards England—their ally for the next ten years—that remark may not apply, but the fact that the naval construction and armament of Japan is likely henceforth to be done in Japanese yards principally by Japanese labor, will have a depressing effect on those industries in Britain which have received many millions from that source. It also has to be noted that China is going in for naval construction under the supervision of Japanese experts. At the end of a decade the other powers will need to keep twenty or more big battleships in far eastern waters, thousands of miles from home, if they are to have any chance of over-awing the yellow races by naval demonstrations.

New problems are rapidly offering themselves for solution by the statesmen of the twentieth century.

MR. PINGLE'S PURPOSE

The first plank in the published platform of the Opposition candidate in West Assinibola deals with the question of so-called Provincial Rights. Mr. Pingle announced himself "in favor of provincial rights for the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan," informs us that "each province should have control of its own crown lands, timber and minerals," and "be free to take such steps for developing them as each deems best," begs the whole financial phase of the question with the unsupported assertion that "with full control of mines, minerals and coal lands and royalties, we would derive a much larger revenue than the grants given each of the respective provinces under the autonomy bill," and continues in a somewhat optimistic vein to inform us that "Mr. Haultain's party" is "drawing to its recruiting ranks Liberals, Conservatives and Independents alike," and "promises to do more for true democracy in the Dominion than has been done by all the political parties of Canada for the last one hundred years."

While the paragraph adds nothing by way either of information, argument or strong language to the stormy discussion which has been waged over the autonomy bills, the general manner in which the claims of the Conservative leaders are marshalled constitutes an appeal to those who supported Haultain in the provincial campaign to support Mr. Pingle in the Federal contest on the same grounds. The Opposition candidate thus makes the first plank in his platform a proposal to carry into Federal politics and, if possible into the House of Commons the issues and the character of Mr. Haultain's late campaign in Saskatchewan. So far, therefore, as the ability and inclination of Mr. Pingle can determine the issue of the contest that issue will not be the Government's policy or administration as it relates to Western affairs, but the perpetuation of the religious war which has been carried on throughout the country during the past year. If Mr. Pingle were returned therefore, he would be returned for the explicit purpose of carrying into the House of Commons a campaign designed to obliterate the present line of party cleavage along matters of fiscal policy and general administration and to re-adjust the division of the House along the line of religious difference. Such it can hardly be supposed is the desire of any ordinarily intelligent Canadian but such is the logical outcome of the course which Mr. Fred S. Pingle has marked out for himself. While we do not anticipate for the opposition candidate in West Assinibola a speedy accomplishment of his purpose the point should not be lost that such failure will not be due to the indifference of Mr. Fred S. Pingle, and it is up to the electors of West Assinibola to say whether they sanction the candidature of a gentleman with so little foresight as to miss the ultimate consequences of his own success or so little regard for public welfare as to deliberately seek this end.

THE IDEAL

At a speech at Ymir, Smith Carleton said the British Columbia Government:

"I ask you what has the government done for any industry, beyond what was being done by any of its predecessors? For fisheries? Nothing. For the forests? Nothing. For the farmer? Nothing. For the miner? Nothing. For the settler? Nothing. What reform legislation? None. Absolutely none proposed by the government. Conservatism gives two or three."

EMBARGO WILL BE REMOVED.

(Calgary Alberta.)

"You may announce to the people of Alberta that the embargo on Canadian cattle in force at the present time by the government of Great Britain will be repealed by the new government."

Such was the statement of Dr. Clark of Olds to the Alberta yesterday morning. Dr. Clark left a couple of months ago for Britain to take part in the elections there. Before coming to this country he was a prominent figure in British politics, being a consistent Liberal.

Dr. Clark said that he had positive assurance from prominent Liberal statesmen that the present embargo so offensive to the people of Canada, would be removed.

Dr. Clark took an active part in the campaign of Thomas Cairns, an old champion of the Liberal cause, at Newcastle on the Tyne. He addressed thirty meetings in ten days. The riding was a Unionist one with an ordinary majority of about 4,000. Dr. Clark did not remain until election day, but as he was asking he was pleased to receive the announcement that his friend had been elected by 6,000 majority. In the same telegram, which was from the successful candidate, were the thanks of Mr.

Cairns adding that the credit of the victory was due to the brilliant Canadian orator.
Dr. Clark left for the north yesterday morning.

DAUGHTERS OF THE EMPIRE.

A Chapter of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire has been established in Edmonton. This order is in alliance with the Victoria League, London, England, and the Navy League, England. The objects of the order are Imperial, Patriotic, and Philanthropic. Branches are already established in all the British Colonies and dependencies—by means of this organization, with its ramifications in every British possession it is hoped the unity of the Empire will be strengthened—the head office of the National Chapter of Canada is at Toronto. While the order is firmly established in the older provinces, the Edmonton Chapter is the first to be established in the Province of Alberta. The following is a list of the officers of the Edmonton Chapter:

Hon. Vice President Mrs. Rulyen, Regent Mrs. H. L. Wilson, 1st Vice Regent Mrs. Cross, 2nd Vice Regent Mrs. Boucher, Standard Bearer Mrs. Strathey, Treasurer Mrs. F. P. Hobson, Secretary Mrs. Ewing.

The Chapter will hold its next meeting at the home of Mrs. C. W. Cross, 7th street, Wednesday, 7th at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

A SLIGHT CONCESSION

(Alberta.)

The Canadian Pacific Railway has announced a reduction in the passenger rates from Winnipeg to Calgary, making them equal to the rates between Winnipeg and Edmonton.

The rates are not as favorable now as they should be. It is a gross discrimination against Calgary that a man can travel from Winnipeg through Calgary to Edmonton, for the same fare as from Winnipeg to Calgary.

But it is some concession. The Alberta humbly claims credit for securing this improved rate for Calgary. The Alberta first drew the attention of the public to the discrimination. The Alberta insisted upon the removal of this outrageous discrimination. The Alberta was alone in this fight. The C.P.R. Herald did not mention the fact in its news columns, the board of trade delayed action.

But there is still a discrimination and Calgary should not be forced to pay a transportation rate which proportionately is very much greater than the rate that Edmonton people pay.

BUSY LAMONT

Lamont, Feb. 1.—Lamont presents a busy scene these days.

Building operations are quite lively. Mr. Fred Smith has a staff of butchers dressing hogs for the Calgary market.

Mr. Hamilton, the wheat buyer is receiving large quantities of wheat, and it is estimated that about 50,000 bushels is still held by the farmers.

Messrs. McGee are erecting a livery stable. Mr. McGee moved his house off his farm to the new town site today.

Mr. Fred Smith has moved the house formerly occupied in Star by the Messrs. Harris agent, to Lamont.

Messrs. Jones and Archer of Winnipeg were up looking at our town with town with the prospect of erecting a hardware store here in the spring.

A buyer for oats is in great demand here just now, there are large quantities of oats held by the farmers.

PEMBINA NEWS

Pembina, Feb. 1.—Mr. Stiffles returned Jan. 17th, with a full gang of men and started his saw mill again, which is located on T. J. Shepherd's farm. At present there are good prospects for a good run all winter.

Mr. Shepherd and wife and Robt Burton and wife have just arrived from Oklahoma. Mr. Shepherd is an old settler but returned to Oklahoma for his wife. He is better pleased than ever with the Pembina country. Mr. Burton is also well pleased with the move he has made, and intends to locate here soon.

Mr. F. Donnelly will start to Edmonton, Wednesday, for his father, J. Donnelly and cousin J. Kiggen, who have been to Dakota on a visit.

A number of settlers went to Lac la Poudre, Sunday to fish. They report a good time and lots of fish. Among those that went were Robt. Burton and wife, W. F. Ramsay and wife, C. Pence, O. Harper, Wm. Solby, C. Shuster, Master Roy and Frank Shepherd.

We are having fine weather now which is quite surprising to the new settlers, who could not hope for such fine weather at this time of the year.

W. F. Ramsay and T. J. Shepherd have bought a threshing machine from Mr. Borer and are doing the neighborhood's threshing. The grain is turning out well and is of superior quality and the farmers are all determined to sow much larger crops next spring.

If there had been no other benefit derived from the recent excursion to the metropolis of the plains, the board of trade men and the city councillors had an excellent opportunity to learn at least one thing—that Alberta has the climate. It took the excursion train from Thursday evening to Sunday night to jam its way through the Saskatchewan snow drifts which delayed traffic on the C. N. R. while all the time Edmonton was enjoying the most delightful Indian summer weather, with cloudless skies, perpetual sunshine, balmy zephyrs, a steady barometer and the thermometer suggestive of the good old summer time. The following telegram from W. A. Brown, superintendent of the Canadian Northern, to the excursionists while en route, explains the situation in a few words:

A. B. Campbell,
President of Board of Trade—
Very sorry for delay on account of severe storm in Saskatchewan and Manitoba but hope when you get into Sunny Alberta you will make up for lost time. Reports from the West show twelve degrees above in Alberta, while raging blizzard in Saskatchewan and Manitoba. Hope boys are enjoying themselves.

HEAD BLOWN FROM BODY

Winnipeg, Feb. 4.—A horrible accident which fatal results is reported from Souris. Herman Yeaton, aged 24, an Englishman, who was visiting at A. R. Ibbotson's near the village of Beresford, had his head blown off while working at a gas generator used in the operation of a machine for moving pictures. The tank was overcharged with gas and an explosion followed which wrecked the kitchen. A fragment of the stove in which the machine had been placed, struck Yeaton's head, severing it from the body. Several others were injured. The accident occurred on the night of February 2.

—Wetaskiwin Times: One of the most extensive sales of property that has taken place in the district was terminated Wednesday last. Mr. R. J. Daley of Toronto, Ontario, purchased from A. S. Rosenroll, M.P.P., the very valuable tract of land known as the Rosenroll ranch, comprising about thirty-five hundred acres; also a portion of the townsite of Rosenroll, which is situated on the N. E. corner of the estate.

—Over thirty articles are to be found in the February issue of The Busy Man's Magazine, beginning with a capital sketch of W. S. Fielding, by H. F. Gadsby. Among the other readable contents are "How Men Get Rich Now," "The First Self-Made Man in America," "The Future of Electricity," by Thos. A. Edison; "The Menace of Enormous Fortunes," "The Greatest Detective Agency in the World," "Nurses, Stenographers and Matrimony," "The Best Remedy for Weary Brains," "The Durable Satisfaction of Life," "Reciprocity in Men," etc. These articles have been gleaned from dozens and dozens of current magazines and represent the very essence of their contents.

OLD LONDON IN ELECTION TIME

are considered very facetious by the crowd "Hurrah, Here's Another." This slide it displays before it wishes to communicate a Liberal gain. It gets a chance to use it very frequently. Another newspaper displays photos of prominent politicians between its announcements. One that never fails to raise a cheer is that of Chamberlain. He is probably the most popular man in the United Kingdom. His enemies may derisively sing "Poor Old Joe," and do considerable "booing," but nevertheless he has the peoples' hearts. Another man who has "taken" with the crowd is Winston Churchill, commonly called by his first name only. He is thirty-one years of age, has been soldier, author and politician, and is now Under-Secretary for the Colonies.

At the present moment the Liberals have captured 161 constituencies out of 318; and in the remaining 352 they will likely gain such a number as will give them a majority over the other three parties combined, namely, Unionist, Nationalist and Labor.

Yours truly,

R. R. BELLAMY.

ADVERTISE IN THE BULLETIN

GROWN IN MANITOBA.

Not 'West Farmer'! The success in apple growing attained by Mr. A. P. Stevenson, of Nelson, Man., has not only attracted the attention of the people of the Canadian prairie, but it has also been the subject of comment by horticulturists living in the states bordering Western Canada. In a recent issue of the St. Paul Farmer, Clarence Wedge, a well known Minnesota fruit grower publishes a letter from Mr. Stevenson, and also makes some commendations upon this variety of apple that Mr. Stevenson has been successful in growing. For the benefit of those of our subscribers who were interested in apple culture in the Northwest, we reproduce Mr. Wedge's entire article, which is as follows:—

APPLES IN MANITOBA.

The following interesting letter has just been received from Manitoba. Mr. Stevenson's situation is about eighteen miles north of the international boundary, and forty miles west of the Red River, and would seem to be located in about as adverse a situation as could be found for an orchard in Southern Manitoba. It is reasonable to suppose that anything in the line of orcharding that could be done in that location in Manitoba ought to be accomplished by any one living anywhere in Minnesota, and certainly proves that all of Minnesota is within the apple belt.

The spotting mentioned on the Hibernal does not injure it much as a family fruit, for if the fruit is stored where it has plenty of air it will keep about as well as the Wealthy. We have seen it in good condition in February, but it affects the commercial value of the fruit very seriously, and will continue to do so until some remedy is found, which would seem to be an easy matter, as it is a difficulty that always begins at the surface of the fruit. The Blushed Calville is a very excellent apple, but coming so near the season of the Dutchess, and not being nearly so regular in form or beautiful in color, will scarcely gain much favor in Southern Minnesota. The Osterkoff, which Mr. Stevenson thinks a shy bearer has proved with us a very heavy bearer later on.

From the price that Mr. Stevenson is getting for his fruit, we should judge that any one who would like to go into fruit raising for profit had better move north than south, and to Manitoba rather than to California.

Nelson, Man., Dec 1, 1905.
Clarence Wedge, Albert Lea, Minn.
Dear Sir: This year our orchard yielded us close to 70 barrels of apples, last year we gathered 40 barrels and 30 this year previous. This Hibernal is the most healthy and vigorous every year but it has the same fault with us as with you, this fruit keeps no time in the barrels until they spot badly. Our next best bearers are the Blushed Calville, Charlantoff, Anisette, Simbrisk No. 1 and Antonofka. The Cross apple is one of our best keepers, followed closely by Heron and Osterkoff. The latter is a fine shaped apple much like the Wealthy in shape, dull red bluish when ripe with a stem over an inch long, but is a shy bearer. The Wealthy, easily heads the list, but we have only six trees in bearing yet, but have nearly 100 plants. Peerless has proved a shy bearer with us, and we are not propagating it to any extent. We have only one large tree of Anisette that annually bears three crops of high colored fruit. The Lowland Raspberry has been bearing for the last six years, fruit is of good quality, but it is a shy bearer. We have a sweet apple of fair size and quality, under the name of Bepka Kislaga. Another summer variety worthy of mention is Volga d'Anis. The fruit is of medium size, of fair quality, but it does not hang well to the tree. These last two mentioned varieties are extra healthy and vigorous in tree. We have never tried the Northwestern Greening up here yet, but would like to do so. We had three hundred trees in the past year. Of these 100 were crabs, 200 standard varieties, a large number of the latter were young trees bearing their first specimens. Our best headed tree (a Hibernal) gave us four barrels of apples. We sold all our apples at $4.00 per barrel in the orchard with no limit to the demand.

Canker is developing one of our worst troubles here. Blight has not troubled us yet on our apple trees, but I think I noticed it on one or two crab trees.—A. P. Stevenson.

Mr. Stevenson mentions the Anisette apple as productive and the fruit beautiful. With us the past few seasons about 50 trees of this variety have made themselves a very useful and popular variety in the orchard, the average apple being fully double as rich in color as the Wealthy. It is also becoming very popular throughout this section wherever grown, as it sells on sight, and is of good quality. Keeping fully as well as the Wealthy varieties that might be profitably planted for commercial purposes in this. We think it one of the half dozen.

We carry dem everywhere.
For workin' away all night an' day
Till it's tam to be millionaire.

So it ain't very long w'en I mak' de strike.
W'at dey're callin' de vein calcite.
Quarter an inch—just a leetle "pinch"
But soon she is come all right;
An' widen out beeg, mebbe wan-sixteen.
An' now we have got her sure,
So we jump on our hat, w'er she go lak dat.
Be an' Bateese Couture.

Early in spring we see dat vein,
W'en de patridge begin to drum—
De lead on de bush start in wit' a rush.
An' de skeeter begin to come;
Very nice tam on de wood for sure,
If you want to be gold die.
Skeeter at night till it's come daylight.
An' after dat, small black fly!

Couple o' gang lak dat, ma frien'.
Specially near de swamp,
An' hongry too, dey can bite an' chew.
An' keep you upon de jump;
But never you min', only work away,
So long as de vein is dere,
For a ting so small don't count at all.
If you want to be millionaire.

"An' dis is de price," Bateese he say.
"Tree million, or nothin' at all."
An' Issay, "You're crazy—it's five you mean."

An' more, if you wait till fall;
An' a'pose de silver was come along.
An' cobalt she bloom an' bloom,
We look very sick if we sol' too quick,
"An' everyting on de boom."

De cash we refuse w'en dey hear de news.
W'en I tink of dat cash today,
I feel like a mouse on a great beeg house.

W'en de familie move away;
One, million, two million, no use to us.
Me an' Bateese Couture;
So we work away ev'ry night an' day.
De sam' we was always poor.

An' den one morning a stranger man,
A man wit' bees hair all w'ite,
Look very wise, an' he smooch surprise
W'en he's seen' dat vein calcite;
An' he says, "Ma frien', for de good advice."

I hope you'll make some room—
From sweetheart girl to the whole whole worl'
Catch everyting on de bloom.

"Kip your eye on de vein, for dere's
many a slip.
Till you drink of de silver cup,
An' if you're not going to go 'way
down,
You're goin' to go 'way up."

"Now, w'at does he mean?" Bateese, he say.
After de ol' ma n'ef,
A' Mebbe want to buy, but he tink it's high.

So we'll finish de job ourse'f;
Furty quick, too, an' den hooraw!
We form it de company.
An' we give dem a sight of de vein
calcite
We work it on Bonami."

Can't count de money dat's comin' in.
Sam' as de lotteree,
Ev'ry wan try, till blinshy
Dere's not many dollar on Bonami;
An' de gang we put on de job right off.

Nearly twenty besides de cook,
Hammer an' drill, till dey're nearly kill.
An' feller to watch de book.

Too many men, an' I see it now,
An' I'm sorry, 'cos I'm de boss,
For walkin' aroun' all over de groun'.
Dat's de reason de vein got los';
Easy enough wit' de lantern, too,
Seen' dat vein las' night.
But today I'm out, lookin' all about,
An' w'ere is dat vein calcite?

Very curious 'ting, but you can't blame me.
For I try very hard, I'm sure,
Helpin' dem on till de vein is gone,
Me an' Bateese Couture;
So, of course, I wonder de way she go.
An' twenty cent, too, a share,
An' I can't understand dat stranger man.

W'at he mean w'en he's sayin' dere,
"Kip your eye on de vein, for dere's
many a slip,
Till you drink of de silver cup,
An' if you're not going to go 'way
down,
You're goin' to go 'way up."

CHINESE NOT WELCOME IN CANADIAN YUKON

Experiences of Pioneer Oriental Gold Miners Discouraged All Others

Cariboo is full of Chinamen; in Cassiar they are as common as whites and Indians, and all the placer camps of the Pacific Coast except those of the Yukon contain these clannish Asiatics, who, sooner or later, from coolie or tyhee remit to the flowery Kingdom the yellow gold they earn in the land, not of their adoption but of their exploitation, says the Vancouver World. Even in far-away Fairbanks, in Uncle Sam's northern territory, two Chinamen, it is reported, spent last season, and these two will as certainly be followed by more as the first two swallows are eventually followed by summer.

"Why has the Canadian Yukon hitherto been immune? This is a question that occasionally occurs to some but the majority of the people are too busy to ask if any Chinamen are in the Yukon and even those who know there are none are either too much occupied with their own affairs to ask a reason or, if they ever think of it, conclude that the Orientals have not yet thought of trying their luck in the golden North.

However, it is quite entirely due to natural causes or to Chinese apathy that there are none of the yellow men in Dawson and the other northern camps. That the Canadian Yukon is still purely a white man's country that patient, frugal, opium-smoking, gambling, tyhee-ridden, industrious, superstitious and altogether peculiar John Chinaman is not washing clothes in Whitehorse, gold on the Klondike creeks or running stores in Dawson, is entirely due and clearly traceable to the prompt, energetic, and far-sighted action of a self-constituted vigilance committee, and a made-white-you-wait mayor who received and turned back the first and last batch of coolies who ever got as far as Whitehorse on the road to the Klondike.

The story of how it was done, how the hopes of Victoria's Chinatown were nipped in the bud, and how the North was saved to the white miner, laborer and merchant was told to a World reporter by an old musher who helped to break the first trails through the Yukon snow.

CHINK HEADED OFF KLONDIKE
"There are lots of old time Yukoners who know how the Chinks were headed off the Klondike," said the musher, the subject having cropped up in the course of conversation. "There are men in Vancouver who were in White Horse when it happened. One of them is Jack West, who was in business there at that time. He ought to be able to remember it, because we appointed him mayor at five minutes notice and gave him the job of giving the Chinks the right kind of a spiel. He handled it all right too, and that is why there are no Chinamen up there now.

"You never saw a miner who liked Chinamen. The Chinks know this and they never go into a new country in large numbers. They know enough to break it gently to the miner and get him to let them in a few of them around before they crowd in at all. Well the men who made the trails in the north and survived it were mostly men who had experience and knew their own minds. They knew the Chinks too, and they did not want them.

"It was in June, 1902, that the tyhee Chinamen in Victoria thought that the trails had been made smooth enough into the Yukon to justify them in sending an advance guard of their country men into the camps there, and they shipped four up the Skagway by the C.P.N. line. One of the newcomers could speak a little English when he wanted to, but if you said something he did not care to understand he couldn't understand anything.

"At Skagway the four pioneers took the White Pass & Yukon line for White Horse where they were to take a boat for Dawson. It's not likely that the transportation companies wanted to carry the Chinks but the law wouldn't let them refuse. Anyway they got to the White Horse safe and sound, but that was where they met their surprise party.

"The Chinamen had not engaged rooms in advance at White Horse, or anything like that, but still there was a big crowd on the platform to meet them. Of course the train was the daily excitement then in that town, as count for the crowd that covered it. It is now, but that did not fully surprise them, and the Chinks were probably surprised at the earnest way they were sized up by the assembled townsmen.

Of course the Chinks had no idea of staying in Whitehorse; there was no mining around there, and while they probably were not expecting to be received with open arms by the Dawson miners and merchants, still they did not expect to cause so much excitement at the rail head. They expected only ordinary welcome at Whitehorse, but it did not turn out quite that way. If they had got to Dawson they would have been about as welcome there as in Whitehorse, for the same class of people, men who had helped to break the trails into the wilderness, constituted both populations, and none of them had any idea of standing by and seeing Chinamen cut them out of the reward of the risks and hardships.

WARM RECEPTION AT WHITE HORSE

The Chinamen arrived at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and at five o'clock the citizens held a meeting to decide upon the best way of getting rid of the Chinks. A committee was appointed to wait on the unwelcome strangers who had by this time found shelter in a tent where they intended to await the arrival of the steamer that was to take them to Dawson the next day. At 9 o'clock the committee interviewed the Chinese and informed them that there were no openings for Chinks in Dawson. It was explained to them that the Dawson people did not want them, but beyond saying that they did not savvy, they made no comment on the information. As there were no trains going to Skagway that night, the matter rested until morning, but when 9 o'clock came and the White Pass limited was ready to pull out for Skagway, the four flowers of Victoria's Chinatown were not ready to leave. They persisted in their intention to go to Dawson and wash clothes. The committee was now rather up against it, the Chinks having failed to take their advice, but they struck a brilliant idea and informed the birds of passage that they would have to call upon the city council or mayor, but something had to be done, so they were invited. The limited was pulling out and the Chinks were still in Whitehorse but there was a freight train pulling out at 11 o'clock, and on this and the bluff about the mayor and council the boys rested their case. Then they went to a man who had not been seen by the Chinks as yet. This was Jack West. They told him that he was appointed mayor, gave him full power to act, told him to do anything he liked, that if he got hanged it would be his own lookout and then left him to the job with their blessing.

"Emergency Mayor West went to the Chinks and gave them a lot of fatherly advice. He told them they would never have any friends in the Yukon territory and that it was a good place for them to get out of as soon as they got the chance. He informed them that he was mayor but did not want to have to take any extreme measures with them. He was helped out by the fact that there were a whole lot of mounted policemen around, who did not interfere, and with whom he took good care to let the Chinks see him associate. The police were not taken into the confidence of the white men and the Chinks did not think of appealing to them. On the contrary, they thought when they saw West talking to them that he must be the only real thing around those parts.

"After convincing the Chinamen that he was boss around the camp and that it was a most unhealthy country for them, the mayor of the moment graciously informed them that there was a freight train leaving at 11 o'clock and that he could arrange with the company to carry them back to Skagway and ship them to Victoria, if they had money for their fares. The Chinks, who had plenty of cash, pleaded poverty, and the resourceful mayor then said that rather than see them get into trouble or stay in such serious danger the authorities would put up the funds.

"The merchants of Whitehorse were glad to get rid of the Chinks at any price and gladly subscribed the fare. They were seen safely aboard the freight train by Mayor West in person, and as soon as the train pulled out of sight everybody went and had a joyous drink on the surplus of the transportation fund. Mayor West's health was drunk so often that the day finally became a very lively one and finished up in a general celebration.

"Nothing much was heard outside about this; it was kept quiet anyway and the newspaper men of Whitehorse were not as restless as those in Vancouver, and I don't think the people of Dawson, Whitehorse and the other Canadian Yukon camps know just how much they owe to the little bunch of men who headed off the Chinese invasion in June, 1902. Old Cariboo is an object lesson in what they saved the North from. That district is full of Chinese and there they fill the places of white miners, merchants, laborers, and white men and women generally."

For the benefit of any Chinaman who may think of going to Dawson now that Mr. West is no longer in Whitehorse, the musher who gave the World reporter the story asked him to mention that there are lots of men like him still in the north who would make life in the Canadian Yukon rather too exciting for Mongolian nerves to stand.

—The boys brigades of the various churches will meet in their respective school rooms tomorrow night for drill. The uniforms for boys, fifty in number, which have been ordered from England, are now on the way and are expected to arrive in the city in a few days. The brigades have been making fairly good progress during the winter months. All Saints' and St. Paul's churches have large companies, and McDougall church also has a very good company. Grace church and First Presbyterian church companies which have been recently organized, are making good progress. The boys are taking great interest in the brigades, and should be encouraged by the parents. The First Presbyterian company still lacks a good many boys to make up the number.
